Following is the text of a communication from Michael Neidorff, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Centene Corporation, to employees of Centene on June 14, 2019:

Dear Colleagues,

Earlier today, we held Centene's annual Investor Day in New York. We had the opportunity to meet with our shareholders and financial analysts, provide them additional information on Centene's performance, and update them about our pending combination with WellCare.

I am pleased to report the positive feedback that we have received from shareholders and analysts about our business and about our future with WellCare. Their enthusiasm for the future of Centene is a reflection of the hard work that you do every day to support our members and our communities.

We are moving forward full steam ahead with the merger process for WellCare and are making progress on our integration planning. I would like to use this opportunity to provide you an update on where we are.

Established Integration Management Office to Lead Integration Planning

Since we announced the combination of Centene and WellCare on March 27, we have been developing a plan to bring together our two organizations and position the combined company for success.

To lead these efforts, we have established an integration planning team, led by an Integration Management Office, which is made up of members from each company. Lisa Brubaker, Senior Vice President, Corporate Quality and Risk Adjustment, is serving as integration lead from Centene. Beau Garverick, who serves as WellCare's Senior Vice President, Corporate Development, Strategy & Integration, is serving as integration lead from WellCare.

Lisa, Beau, and employees from both companies are working together, carefully reviewing all functions and capabilities across both organizations to determine how we can best unlock the value of this powerful combination. As we bring our teams together, we will take the same thoughtful and comprehensive approach as we did with the Health Net and Fidelis Care combinations, including planning how to successfully join our capabilities and our people.

Topline Leadership Announcement

As you know, we announced that Ken Burdick, currently Chief Executive Officer of WellCare, and Drew Asher, currently Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of WellCare, will join Centene in pivotal executive leadership positions after the transaction closes. Today we have taken the next step in the integration planning efforts by announcing the future top-line executive leadership team that will lead the combined Company forward following the completion of the merger.

As part of the go-forward leadership structure, Ken will oversee the Markets and Products component of the business. This includes our Markets, Products (Medicaid, Marketplace, Medicare, LTSS, Duals) and Marketing/Brand. Aligning these core areas will enable us to further drive integration and innovation for our members and communities, and accelerate future growth for the company.

Drew will oversee some of our Specialty Services lines of business, including Envolve Benefit Options, PeopleCare and Pharmacy Solutions. The acquisition of WellCare will significantly increase our scale in pharmacy, and Drew's expertise in this space, as well as his success in running and growing business components of this size will be pivotal to the strong specialty services businesses.

Importantly, these changes do not take effect until after the transaction closes. Until then, reporting remains with the existing team and is subject to further change during integration planning.

In addition, at this stage in the planning process, the Centene leadership team stays in place. Unless otherwise specified, all leaders remain in their roles, and continue to report to their current manager.

Combining Best of Both

Centene and WellCare each have extraordinary talent across all levels, and we believe this structure will leverage the strengths of our combined organization to realize the benefits of this transaction for all of stakeholders.

While this week's announcements are a big first step, please remember that this is only the first decision in a series of decisions that will be made regarding the integration of WellCare. We have a dedicated team focused on executing a thoughtful and comprehensive integration, which is fundamentally about how best to join our capabilities and people to unlock tremendous value.

As you know, both our teams have a strong track record of successful integration and we look forward to continuing to work together in the months ahead to ensure a smooth transition for all our stakeholders. We will continue to keep you updated on important developments as we move through the integration planning and transaction closing process.

Since we announced the transaction in March, you have continued to do an extraordinary job serving our members and our communities. As we move forward, the best way you can continue to help is by remaining focused on your day-to-day responsibilities and business objectives, so we can continue helping our members live healthier lives.

As always, if you have any questions, please submit them to inquiries@centene.com. If anyone from the investment community or media contacts you, please do not comment on the transaction and forward all external inquiries to Marcela Hawn, SVP, Chief Communications Officer at mediainquiries@centene.com.

Thank you for dedication and commitment to Centene.

Sincerely,

Michael Neidorff

Chairman, President, and Chief Executive Officer

Centene Corporation
